Publisher
Welcome
Network

"I am Andrea Jarach, editor of the Welcome Magazines, periodicals that we have been publishing for 13 years for international visitors in some of the most important cities for tourism in Italy. To keep up with the upward trend in tourism, last year we added Verona to the traditional editions of Venice, Florence, Turin and have expanded our Milan magazine to the Lombardy region.

Welcome Magazine is here to accompany visitors in their discovery of Italy's attractions. As you can see in the following pages, the Welcome Magazine offers useful information about events, shopping, food and wine, everything that can interest the visitor answering the question: "what can I do, what can I discover during my stay?". Our aim is to create memorable experiences of the visit, also by linking together the different opportunities offered by the area. Our mission is to provide essential tourist information for the benefit of visitors who choose wonderful Italy as their destination.

You will find the Welcome Magazines in the approximately 500 hotels belonging to the Welcome Magazine circuit in Italy. You can therefore use the traditional paper editions, but don't miss the chance to browse through the pages of the digital and interactive editions also on your computers and smartphones.

And for all of you who love shopping and have a non-EU passport: since October 2022, Welcome Network has become a partner of Global Blue, the leading service company for obtaining tax refunds. Keep an eye on our pages and our website www.welcomemagazine.it to enjoy the important benefits offered by Global Blue. Welcome to Italy, discover and enjoy!"

1 DUOMO AND CUPOLA
Completed in 1436, at the time the Duomo in Florence was the largest Christian church in the world. Today the religious building, the official name of which is "Cathedral of Santa Maria del Fiore", is third in terms of dimensions after St. Peter's in Rome and St. Paul's Cathedral in London. Brunelleschi's Dome, still the tallest construction in the city, is a symbol known all over the world.

2 BATTISTERO
The Baptistry of St. John the Baptist is characterised by an octagonal plan, lined with a dome of eight segments, covered by a pyramid roof. The outside is decorated with white marble from Carrara and green marble from Prato, characteristics of the Florentine architecture of the Romanesque period.

3 CAMPANILE DI GIOTTO
84.70 metres high and around 15 wide, the Giotto's bell tower is one of the four main components of the complex of Santa Maria del Fiore. Lined with white, red and green marble, the majestic square-based bell tower, designed by Giotto in 1334, can be visited by climbing no less than 414 stairs up to the top, from where you can enjoy extraordinary views of Brunelleschi's Dome.

4 PIAZZA DELLA SIGNORIA AND PALAZZO VECCHIO
This is the central square of Florence, the seat of civil power and social heart of the city. Facing onto it are Palazzo Vecchio (the seat of the Municipal Council of Florence), the splendid Loggia della Signoria, the Tribunale della Mercanzia, Palazzo Uguccioni and Palazzo delle Assicurazioni Generali. Also prominent in the square are the Fountain of Neptune and a series of statues of Renaissance origin, representing one of the most important sculptural cycles in the world. The most famous is certainly Michelangelo's David (this is a copy, whereas the original is conserved in the Galleria dell'Accademia).

5 GALLERIA DEGLI UFFIZI
One of the most famous museums in the world on account of its extraordinary collections of ancient sculptures and paintings (from the Middle Ages to the modern age). The Gallery occupies the first and second floors of the large building erected between 1560 and 1580 based on a project by Giorgio Vasari.

6 PONTE VECCHIO

The official date of foundation of the current Ponte Vecchio is given as 1345. For the entire Middle Ages the bridge hosted greengrocers, fishmongers and butchers' shops, who used the river to dispose of their waste in a hurry. At the end of the 16th century, however, when it became the "noble" zone of the city, the goldsmiths and jewellers started to arrive, and they have been there uninterruptedly to this day.

7 CORRIDOIO VASARIANO

The Vasari Corridor is a raised walkway connecting Ponte Vecchio with Palazzo Pitti. It is a rather narrow passage the entrance to which is at the beginning of the second corridor of the Uffizi Gallery; it then stretches along the Arno, over the Ponte Vecchio, finally arriving at Palazzo Pitti. It was built in 1565 by the great Florentine architect Giorgio Vasari. On display along the Corridor are over 1000 paintings.

8 PALAZZO PITTI AND GIARDINO DI BOBOLI

The symbol of wealth and power, the building was inhabited by the Medici, then by the Habsburg-Lorraines and, after the Unity of Italy, by the Savoy family. The original architecture dates back to the 15th century and "Pitti" is the surname of its first owner. The building is located Oltrarno, at the foot of Boboli Hill. The Boboli Gardens are one of the most important examples of Italian-style gardens in the world.

9 PIAZZALE MICHELANGELO

This is the most famous and appreciated panoramic point in Florence, with its views seen all over the world in million of postcards and reproductions. The design of the square dates back to 1869, when Florence was capital of Italy. Dedicated to the city's most famous artist, the square has bronze copies of some of Michelangelo's most famous sculptures.

10 SAN MINIATO AL MONTE

The Abbey of San Miniato al Monte is a medieval religious building situated at one of the highest panoramic points in Florence. The most spectacular access is gained via the monumental flight of steps. The outside of the church is decorated with green and white marble, typical of Florentine Romanesque, while the interior, which is unusual and of great beauty, boasts one of the city's best conserved original floors.

11 MERCATO CENTRALE

Built at the end of the 19th century, the Central Market is a building of a certain architectural merit. The project was entrusted to Giuseppe Mengoni, the architect of the Galleria Vittorio Emanuele in Milan, who was inspired by Les Halles in Paris. Today, a point of reference for informal but good quality cuisine for both Florentines and tourists.

12 SANTA CROCE

One of the "great basilicas" in Florence, a point of reference of the Franciscan order. Giotto painted some of his great masterpieces here and the French writer Stendhal experienced that profound artistic agitation that has been known since then as the "Stendhal syndrome". The basilica contains the monumental sepulchres of Michelangelo, Galileo and Machiavelli.

13 SANTA MARIA NOVELLA

A point of reference of the Dominican order, the church, with its elegant façade by Leon Battista Alberti, is a harmonious synthesis of Gothic and Renaissance styles. It hosts exceptional works of art by Masaccio, Giotto, Brunelleschi, Filippino Lippi, Domenico Ghirlandaio and Paolo Uccello.

14 SANTO SPIRITO

A point of reference of the Augustinian order. The church has given its name to the entire surrounding neighbourhood, "Borgo Santo Spirito". A jewel of Renaissance architecture, the church was the last great project by Filippo Brunelleschi.

15 SAN LORENZO

One of the "great basilicas" of Florence, founded, according to the tradition, by Saint Ambrose, the first bishop of Milan, in the 4th century AD. Its current appearance, however, is the result of the last major reconstruction work that took place in the 15th century at the wishes of the Medici and under the direction of the great architect Filippo Brunelleschi.

PALAZZO PITTI MUSEUMS

A RENAISSANCE MASTERPIECE

A palace for three dynasties, this extraordinary building is located in the Oltrarno, at the foot of Boboli Hill. The famous Boboli Gardens, which are the park of the palace, a genuine open-air museum, take their name from this hill. Palazzo Pitti currently contains four different museums.

Treasures of the Grand Dukes (ground floor and mezzanine)

Conserved in what were the summer apartments of the Medici family are the precious "Treasures of the Medici": vases made of semi-precious stones, rock crystals, ambers and ivories, the exceptional collection of Oriental porcelains; there is also the silverware of the so-called "Treasure of Salzburg", an important collection of jewels created between the 17th and 20th centuries, and a significant section dedicated to contemporary jewellery.

Palatine Gallery and Monumental Apartments (noble floor)

The 14 sumptuously furnished rooms of the Royal Apartments offer a fascinating blend of styles telling of the daily lives and tastes of the various periods and families that lived there. The "Quadreria", the Picture Gallery, established between the 18th and 19th centuries by the Lorena family, includes the world's largest concentration of works by Raphael, as well as paintings by Titian, Tintoretto, Caravaggio and Rubens.

Gallery of Modern Art (second floor)

Today the sumptuous environments that were once the residence of the Lorena family house paintings and sculptures, mostly Italian, from Neoclassicism to the 1930s, with an important group of paintings by the Macchiaioli school.

Museum of Fashion and Costume (Palazzina della Meridiana)

This museum possesses a stock of six thousand items, including ancient clothing, theatrical costumes and fashion accessories from the 18th century to today, in addition to underwear, jewels and costume jewellery. Included among the costumes are the 16th-century burial clothes of Cosimo I de' Medici, Eleonor of Toledo and their son.

About Ponte Vecchio

It is one of the undisputed symbols of Florence and, as such, is one of the most photographed sites in the world. Here are some details so you can get to know it better.

First of all, it must be said that Ponte Vecchio (literally "Old Bridge") is indeed "old". The first to identify a ford in the Arno were the Etruscans. The Roman founders of the village of "Florentia" built a wood and stone bridge there, the forerunner of the current one, which dates back to around 1345. Since then, with all the various restorations and modifications, this passage across the Arno has remained in its place, actively participating in the history of the city.

ORIGINAL ARCHITECTURE

The bridge is characterised by a solution with lowered arches, never previously seen, which makes it particularly stable and its profile unmistakable. From the very beginning, it was understood to be a natural continuation of the road, and so it has shops and porticos along both sides facing towards the centre, each with a single shop window closed by strong wooden doors, and often with a picturesque backroom protruding over the river. Then, grafted onto the high part of the bridge is the Vasari Corridor, the strategic passageway that was built at the wishes of Cosimo de' Medici in 1565 to connect the administrative buildings to his private residence, without exposing the sovereign to any danger.

A UNIQUE HISTORY

The change of identity of the zone during the Renaissance is due precisely to the Vasari Corridor. The traditional shops of greengrocers, butchers and fishmongers, who had a preference for the bridge on account of the ease with which they could throw their waste into the river, were evicted en bloc: it was preferred to offer the sovereign goldsmiths' and jewellers' shops, which were more appropriate for his gaze (and his nose), and they have continued their presence there ever since for the pleasure of tourists. Since then, Ponte Vecchio has been an assiduous witness – and sometimes a protagonist – of the history of the city:

considering it a source of great pride, Mussolini invited Hitler there in 1938, opening up new larger, more panoramic windows for his benefit. One rather romanticised version claims that Hitler himself, cherishing the memory of such beauty, would decide to save the bridge from the terrible bombing campaigns of 1944. Unfortunately, the historical reconstruction seems to prove that this merit cannot be ascribed to the German dictator.

LUXURY SHOPPING

For more than four hundred years, Ponte Vecchio has therefore been inhabited by artisans creating admirable gold and silver objects. Still today, this remains the commercial vocation of the neighbourhood, which is nevertheless not lacking in other luxury trades, starting with artisan leather goods. Obviously, the accesses and areas surrounding the Bridge, between via Por Santa Maria and Lungarno degli Archibusieri on one side, and between Borgo San Jacopo and via de' Guicciardini on the other, are also swarming with points of interest and high-quality shops. Bear in mind, however, that sometimes you need only turn into an unknown alley to get away from the bustling crowds and enjoy a carefree stroll.

UNDER THE BRIDGE

Finally, you should know that there is also life under the bridge: the historic Società

Canottieri Firenze, as well as bringing together sporting rowers, is a point of reference for the activities that take place on the banks of the river. Today, the Circle also offers a stupendous location for aperitifs, lunches and dinners.

▲ REVOLUTIONARY SCULPTURE

EXHIBITION Among the most important artists on the international scene, Anish Kapoor is distinguished by a unique visual language that combines painting, sculpture and architectural forms. The exhibition at Palazzo Strozzi offers a new journey among his monumental installations, intimate environments and disturbing forms, which create an original and engaging dialogue with architecture and the public. Through historical works and recent productions, the exhibition becomes an invitation to enter into direct dialogue with Kapoor's art in its versatility, discordance, entropy and ephemerality, where the visitor is called to question his or her senses. Pigment, stone, steel, wax and silicone, to name but a few of the materials he works with, are manipulated, sculpted, polished, saturated and treated questioning the boundary between plasticity and immateriality.

► THE UFFIZI SELF-PORTRAITS

NEW INSTALLATION It was Cardinal Leopoldo de' Medici in the 1600s who started the portrait collection, and today the Uffizi possesses the largest, oldest, and most important collection of self-portraits in the world: more than 2,000, including paintings, sculptures, and drawings. The rooms of the new installation, on the second floor of the Gallery, are bright pink, an allusion to Cardinal Leopold's robes, and are organized chronologically from the earliest portrait to the last room, where we find Antony Gormley's cast-iron sculpture, Michelangelo Pistoletto's self-portrait on a mirror, and the one made of plastic bricks by Ai Weiwei. Offering a selection of 255 works, including paintings, sculptures, installations, and graphics, the tour is an opportunity to meet a host of leading figures in art history.

PHOTOGRAPHY At the center of cultural programming in the city, the Museo Novecento is hosting an exhibition dedicated to renowned New York photographer Robert Mapplethorpe. Forty years after the major exhibition that brought his photography to Italy in 1983, the exhibition dedicated to the American artist is based on a substantial nucleus of his works. Works that highlight the search for sculptural plasticity in images of male and female nudes but also still lifes. Finally, "Beauty and Desire" offers a never-before-seen comparison between Mapplethorpe's work and some photographs from the late 19th and early 20th centuries from the Alinari Archives.

◀ THE POWERFUL BEAUTY OF MUCHA'S WOMEN

EXHIBITION This is the first time in Florence for Alphonse Mucha, the most important Czech artist, father of Art Nouveau and creator of iconic images. In the late 19th and early 20th centuries Paris was considered the center of the art world. It is the so-called Belle Époque, there is great enthusiasm, and Alphonse Mucha, thanks in part to his meeting with Sara Bernhardt, becomes the most famous and disputed artist of the time. His works, illustrations, theater posters, and nascent advertising are accessible to all. A new form of communication was born with him: the beauty of flowering maidens, portrayed in a blend of the sacred and the profane, voluptuous and seductive figures, depicted in a unique compositional style, became characteristic of the famous "Mucha style". His images immediately became world famous, his style was the most imitated, the powerful beauty of his women entered everyone's collective imagination.

ART Undisputed master of 20th-century art, Fortunato Depero is the protagonist of the fall exhibition at Palazzo Medici Riccardi. The exhibition retraces some of the themes that characterized Depero's production to highlight the connection of his figure and work with the Florentine territory. The project takes its cue from the presence in the Museo Novecento's collections of "Nitrito in velocità" (1932), a masterpiece by the artist that is part of the civic collections. The painting was donated by the naval engineer Alberto Della Ragione to the City of Florence in the aftermath of the terrible flood of 1966, along with more than 240 works from his famous collection. A work that combined the popular element with a fervid figurative imagination, themes of the contemporary with traditional motifs such as the horse.

WINE TOURS AND MUST-DO EXPERIENCES IN THE TUSCAN COUNTRYSIDE

EXPERIENCE The spring season is definitely the best time of the year to relax and savor the beauty of the Tuscan countryside. These places offer a wide selection of experiences that combine leisure and entertainment. For example, if you are a wine or truffle enthusiast, you absolutely need to book a visit to the historic cellars of Montepulciano, as well as have lunch in the vineyards and wine tastings in San Gimignano, where you can also go truffle hunting in the woods and then have a truffle lunch. Alternatively, if you love animals, the best choice for you is taking horse-riding tours through the vineyards in San Gimignano or on the Siene hills, followed by a picnic or a wine tasting, to your liking.

If you want to live a once-in-a-lifetime experience, going trekking or taking a walk with the sweetest alpacas in the Florentine hills is exactly what you are looking for. The experience is suitable for both adults and children, even to those who are not much of a walker.

On the other hand, if you are interested in something more dynamic and adventurous, you absolutely shouldn't miss the quad excursions arranged in some fairytale landscapes, such as the Chianti hills or the Maremma. After the ride, you are also offered a lunch with grilled meat and good wine or wine tasting, depending on the package you choose.

► DIALOGUES IN ART

EXHIBITION Florence was instrumental in shaping the thinking of art historian Aby Warburg (1866-1929), the father of fundamental theories on image culture. The importance of the city for the scholar consisted not only in the extraordinary concentration of ancient and Renaissance works among which he could immerse himself, but in the great historical-political and urban transformations of the time. The museum's collections dialogue vis à vis with Warburg's laboratory of images collected in the recently reconstructed Mnemosyne Atlas, his last major project. More than 100 photographs, drawings, and documents overlook the paintings and sculptures in the museum's permanent collection.

◀ A FAMOUS MARKET EXPERIENCE

OUT OF TOWN The most eagerly awaited event of the Valdarno autumn takes place at Figline Valdarno (1 hour from Florence). The fair is dedicated to agriculture, food and the environment and offers food stands, tastings and typical products. Every year at this fair thousands of people flock to the streets and squares of Figline's historic center, with the large food market and street food area taken by storm. This year's novelties from the world of agriculture, environment and territory are told through events, exhibitions, stands and children's attractions.

FLORENCE AT YOUR FEET

EXPERIENCE Piazzale Michelangelo is one of the most charming belvederes in Florence, an unmissable terrace overlooking the city, an essential destination for tourists and Florentines alike. The panorama to be enjoyed from here is breathtaking, as it embraces the entire city, from Forte Belvedere to Santa Croce, along the Lungarni and the Ponte Vecchio, and then the Duomo with its dome and Giotto's bell tower, Palazzo Vecchio, and beyond, the hills to the north of the city. In the square dedicated to Michelangelo there are bronze copies of his famous works: the David and the four allegories of the Medici Chapels of San Lorenzo, the originals of which are obviously conserved in the city. For a guaranteed wow effect, go there at sunset. You can get there by bus or on foot, going along the Lungarno, or from Piazza Poggi, by climbing up the charming Rampe del Poggi, a combination of steps, grottos and fountains.

TRADITIONAL EVENTS IN FLORENCE AND ITS SURROUNDINGS

JANUARY

CAVALCATA DEI MAGI

A historical re-enactment of the Epiphany (6 January) when Three Wise Men brought gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh to the Baby Jesus. A celebration that takes place wearing splendid fifteenth-century costumes.

CAVALCATA DEI MAGI

FEBRUARY

ANNIVERSARY OF THE DEATH OF THE ELECTRESS OF THE PALATINATE

Celebration of the last heir of the Medici dynasty, Anna Maria Luisa: the presence in Florence of extraordinary artistic treasures including the Uffizi Gallery, the Palatine Gallery and the Gallery of the Academy is all due to her. To mark the occasion, on 18 February some municipal museums allow access free of charge.

TASTE FIRENZE

An annual fair at Fortezza da Basso to explore new flavors from across the world speaking to international vendors about the history of each food. Appreciate the blend of international cuisine and Italian dishes and widen your horizons by understanding just how Italy is a combination of historical and modern elements. taste.pittimmagine.com

MARCH

NEW YEAR'S PROCESSION

Florence celebrates the New Year twice a year: on January 1, with the rest of the world, and on March 25. This is due to New Year's Day coinciding with the Annunciation between the tenth century and 1749. The Feast of the Annunciation is a celebration that brings Christians on a pilgrimage to the Basilica dell'Annunziata. To celebrate the event, the people of Florence hold a procession through the city with traditional costumes, music, and flags. You can see the procession as it moves from the Palazzo di Parte Guelfa to the Basilica dell'Annunziata.

EASTER

SCOPPIO DEL CARRO

A popular secular and religious tradition that dates back to the time of the Crusades. A procession with percussionists and flag-wavers in historical costumes, city officials and representatives of the clergy, accompanies a cart with a pyrotechnic tower from the church of SS. Apostoli to Santa Maria del Fiore, where it is set alight.

APRIL-MAY

GIARDINO DELL'IRIS

The iris flower is the symbol of the city: actually, the red flower on the Florentine coat of arms is an iris and not a lily! The garden was opened in 1957 and since then, hundreds of different species from all over the world have been planted, some of which are very rare and ancient. Currently, this wonderful place next to Piazzale Michelangelo houses over 1,500 varieties of iris, which come in a variety of colors and shapes and bloom in late April and early May. www.societaitalianairis.com

WISTERIA BLOOMING AT VILLA BARDINI

Four hectares of woodland, garden and orchard flanked by the city's medieval walls, located between Costa San Giorgio and Borgo San Niccolò. The Garden integrates the Italian-style garden, with its magnificent Baroque staircase; the English-style woodland which, with its exotic elements; the agricultural park with a new orchard and splendid wisteria pergola. www.villabardini.it

MAY

PALIO DELLE CONTRADE IN FUCECCHIO

One of the most awaited events in Tuscany as it involves no less than 12 Contrade

GIARDINO DELL'IRIS

TROFEO MARZOCCO

(city wards), represented by jockeys and their horses. It commemorates an ancient dispute, which took place around 1200 in Fucecchio (50 km from Florence). The audience has been waiting for this moment for the whole year also to attend or participate to the historical parade, performed by over a thousand people wearing medieval costumes. www.paliodifucecchio.it

CANTINE APERTE

The "Cantine Aperte" even is the ideal experience for wine enthusiasts and much more... During the last weekend of May, most of the Italian regions open their cellars to the public and different activities, combining wine and entertainment, are arranged. If you're food lover, you might like to know that many wineries will provide food trucks and organize cooking classes, which is the perfect chance to learn how to make regional specialties while sipping a glass of good wine. www.movimentoturismovino.it

FESTA DI SAN ZANOBI

Each year, the town of Scandicci (30 minutes from Florence) celebrates Festa di San Zanobi to honor its patron saint. The festival includes several religious events, such as the pilgrimage to the nearby cave of San Zanobi. Visitors can also enjoy a historical parade through the city center, complete with entertainment and historical costumes. In the Acciaio Park, witness a medieval field with activities that range from dances to pony rides.

TROFEO MARZOCCO-SBANDIERATORI

A contest between historical groups of flag-wavers organized by the "Bandierai degli Uffizi di Firenze", and takes place on 1 May in Piazza della Signoria.

PALIO DEL BALUARDO

A crossbow shooting competition on the third Sunday of the month to commemorate the birth of the Florentine Republic on 16th

May 1527, the date when the Medici were expelled from Florence. The competition is held at the Bastione known as the Fonte della Ginevra.

LA FIORITA

A Florentine tradition celebrating the burning at the stake of Dominican preacher Fra Girolamo Savonarola, a controversial figure in the city's history. Every 23 May wreath of flowers is laid on the plaque dedicated to him in Piazza della Signoria, after which rose petals are thrown into the Arno from Ponte Vecchio.

MAY-JUNE

FESTA MEDIEVALE IN MALMANTILE

Each year, the walled village of Malmantile (30 km from Florence) designed by Brunelleschi relives the ancient past with a unique historical commemoration. The Florentine town fills up with jugglers, minstrels, acrobats and knights, that all together succeed in recreating the typical life of the medieval village. www.festamedioevalemalmantile.it

FESTA DI SAN ZANOBI

A CENA DA MESSER GIOVANNI

Each June, Via Bocaccio in Certaldo (30 km from Florence) transforms into a medieval dinner. Large tables are set up along the street to recreate the atmosphere of a medieval meal. Enjoy entertainment throughout dinner, such as sword duels, fire eating, juggling, acrobatics, and fireworks.

FESTA DI SAN GIOVANNI and FINALE DEL CALCIO STORICO

Every 24 June, this is a contest that has taken place in Piazza Santa Croce for 600 years on the day of St. John the Baptist, the patron saint of the city. Highly competitive, it combines football, rugby and wrestling and is held as the culmination of a tournament between teams from the city's neighbourhoods: White from Santo Spirito, Red from Santa Maria Novella, Green from San Giovanni and Blue from Santa Croce.

JULY

FESTA DI SANT'ANNA

A secular and religious festival held near the church of Orsanmichele, in which the figure of Saint Anne, co-patron saint of the city, is venerated. The event is celebrated 26 July.

AUGUST

FESTA DI SAN LORENZO

It takes place in the morning of every 10 August, with a "Historical Procession of the Florentine Republic" from the Piazzetta di Parte Guelfa through the streets of the historic centre to the Basilica di San Lorenzo. In the evening, in Piazza San Lorenzo.

SEPTEMBER

CARRO MATTO

This is one of the great traditions of Renaissance Florence. The "Carro Matto" is a genuine masterpiece of engineering, with around 2000 fragile fiaschi (the classic Tuscan blown-glass bottles, protected by straw) stacked in a pyramid in a miraculous balancing act. In the afternoon of the last Saturday of September it enters Florence hauled by oxen of the Chianina breed.

FESTA DELLA RIFICOLONA

The origins of this much loved feast date back to the 17th century, when the many people who had come into the city with their families from the surrounding countryside lit up the itinerary with lanterns of various kinds, known as "rificolone". The feast on 7 September begins at 8pm in Piazza Santa Felicita, passes through Piazza della Signoria and arrives in Piazza Santissima Annunziata for the final festival with music and the awarding of a prize to the most beautiful "rificolona".

OCTOBER

FESTA DI SANTA REPARATA

At Santa Maria del Fiore each year the ceremony is held on 8 October offering candles in the crypt. According to the legend it was thanks to the miraculous intercession of Saint Reparata that the Florentines succeeded in repelling the siege of the Ostrogoths in 406 AD, an event that marked the triumph of Christianity in Florence.

NOVEMBER

AUTUMNIA IN FIGLIENE VALDARNO

The most eagerly awaited event of the Valdarno autumn takes place at Figline Valdarno (1 hour from Florence). The fair is dedicated to agriculture, food and the environment and offers food stands, tastings and typical products.

DECEMBER

FESTA DEGLI OMAGGI

An ancient folkloristic event in which the "Procession of the Florentine Republic" addresses the civil and religious authorities to wish them good luck during the Christmas festivities.

CHRISTMAS GERMAN MARKET IN SANTA CROCE

Huts and wooden stalls selling delicious Italian and German titbits, decorations and hand-crafted products. Street food, Italian and in some cases international. An event that is now very dear to Florentines and also intriguing for tourists and the curious, held in one of the city's main (and most beautiful) squares.

Brandimarte, on a silver platter

At the historic Florentine silverware brand, you can purchase engravings, glasses, decanters, bracelets, rings, necklaces, pendants and much more besides, all strictly made in Italy.

In the heart of the historic centre of Florence, there is a special boutique, a genuinely exciting place to tour which aims to re-educate you on the use of silver in everyday life, breaking the habit of seeing the silver item as a luxury piece to only be exhibited on special occasions. This is the workshop of Brandimarte, a company that was established in Florence in 1955 and that was run by the founder's grandchildren, Stefano and Giada Guscelli. Since 2017 the brand is owned by Bianca Guscelli, Stefano's daughter. Brandimarte is distinguished for the hand crafting and sale of silverware for the table and 925 sterling silver jewellery, in addition to its collection of historical silver medals. The collections of jewels, exclusively made in Italy, created by the best Florentine artisans, include bracelets, rings, necklaces, earrings and much more besides. Among the lines to be worn, standing out are the "timeless" hammered jewellery, elegant and sophisticated. In the boutique you will also find the "Wine Collection": decanters and tasting glasses made of 925 sterling silver. This metal, in fact, has organoleptic and antibacterial properties, is a heat conductor and enhances the aromas within drinks.

The entire Ferragamo universe

PH © GUGLIELMO DE' MICHELI FOR SALVATORE FERRAGAMO

Florentine brand that has known how to combine age-old hand crafting skills with the creativity typical of products made in Italy, today Salvatore Ferragamo represents quality, contemporary elegance, innovation and tradition.

The Florentine boutique, which contains all the fashion house's men's, women's, accessories and perfume collections, is located inside the medieval Palazzo Spini Feroni, the company's historic workshop since 1938, today its headquarters and the site of the Salvatore Ferragamo Museum.

The boutique occupies the entire ground floor of the building, inside large spaces decorated with 18th-century frescoes, stretching from Piazza Santa Trinita to the banks of the River Arno.

FERRAGAMO'S CREATIONS - The wing of the store that faces onto Piazza Santa Trinita hosts the Ferragamo's Creations corner, with the exclusive footwear line that revisits some of the brand's iconic. This is a space whose layout recalls the studio where Salvatore Ferragamo received his customers and all its creative inspiration. A unique opportunity to fully immerse yourself in the universe of this gifted innovator who has revolutionised the world of women's footwear through new models, volumes and materials.

Strolling through Florence

The city's blend of old-world charm and modern specialty stores makes for a shopping experience that will satisfy every kind of visitor.

VIA DE'TORNABUONI: LUXURY SHOPPING

Together with Via della Vigna Nuova, Via de' Tornabuoni is believed to be the most famous shopping area in the city, containing many top designer fashion brands. This district, which is the medieval heart of the city, has been associated with luxury shopping since the 19th century. The historical buildings have been renovated into modern stores housing famous brands like Gucci, Salvatore Ferragamo, Bulgari, Burberry, Damiani, Dolce & Gabbana, Giorgio Armani, Loro Piana, Montblanc, Pomellato, Prada, Saint Laurent, Stefano Ricci, Valentino, Tod's, Hogan, Emilio Pucci and many others. Visit the Museo Salvatore Ferragamo within the same boutique, which honors the world-famous Florentine designer with piece showcases and historical evolution documents. Also, make sure to visit L'Olfattorio, a bar à parfums that blends Renaissance architecture with the sale of contemporary products, where you can inhale scents from wine glasses.

VIA DEL PARIONE: THE ARTISANAL HEART OF THE CITY

A street celebrating Florence's artisanal shopping opportunities, revealing artisanal stores and modern boutiques that offer one-of-a-kind goods. This area houses Il Bisonte, a Florentine brand of unique high-quality Italian leather items and Anichini, a traditional tailor's shop for children where skilled artisans create elegant items for newborns, children and youngsters using the best Italian fabrics. Don't miss the Antica Legatoria Alberto Cozzi, a store filled with the arts of bookbinding, personalizing original leather goods, and embellishing paper through the rare process of marbling.

PONTE VECCHIO, LUXURY SHOPPING OVER THE BRIDGE

Ponte Vecchio is a passageway over the Arno River that is devoted to shopping for gold and jewellery. The jewellery shops on the Ponte Vecchio have a long history. Back in 1563, Grand Duke Ferdinand I ordered local goldsmiths to set up shop along the bridge, in order to replace the butchers' and grocers' shops that had been established there for centuries. The latter threw garbage and scraps from their shops into the Arno and this damaged the image of the centre of a prestigious city such as Florence. After four hundred years, this is still the commercial vocation of the district, which nonetheless does not lack other luxury trades, starting with handmade leather goods. Particular attention should be paid to the Cassetti 1926 boutique, whose first shop on the Ponte Vecchio dates back to 1976 and whose second was opened in 1981. This was followed by the Rolex Boutique in 2009 and, since 2014, the Vacheron Constantin Boutique, which, with its watchmaking history of almost 260 years, adds further value to the range of luxury goods offered by the Cassetti brand.

SAN LORENZO MARKET

The market of San Lorenzo is a not-to-be-missed experience in Florence. The indoor section, called Mercato Centrale, is a gourmet heaven that offers an endless selection of international foods in a 19th-century building. Shop for groceries or spend time tasting all the food in the eating area. The market also has an outdoor area that stretches across multiple streets surrounding Mercato Centrale, consisting of hundreds of vendors that give you the opportunity to buy authentic souvenirs.

ARTISANS IN OLTRARNO

From a recent census, it seems that there are around 800 artisans' workshops in the Oltrarno. Via Maggio, in particular, traditionally a temple for antiquarians, is today still a concentration of art and culture. However, if you have a weakness for shoes, you are in the right place, because this zone is the very place where you can see craftsmen busy at work on made-to-measure shoes, such as those of Roberto Ugolini (see photo). Do you love the unmistakable aroma of paper? Then you will not be able to resist going into one of the marbled paper and bookbinding artisan shops in the Oltrarno, such as Il Torchio.

But this zone is also swarming with goldsmiths' workshops: for example, drop in at Ugo Bellini, a stone's throw from Piazza Santo Spirito, where they create exclusive jewellery using age-old methods, also based on customers' designs. And what can you say about the Antico Setificio Fiorentino, one of the very few silk production workshops left in Europe? Since 1786 they have been spinning precious silk fabrics, today used above all by the houses of haute couture and by architects to furnish residences and boats.

SANT'AMBROGIO, THE PICTURESQUE DISTRICT OF FLORENCE

Sant'Ambrogio is a lesser-known area filled with stores and restaurants, featuring the beauty of Florence without plentiful crowds. Shop for fresh ingredients in the Mercato di Sant'Ambrogio, a historic indoor market that has offered produce and specialty foods since 1873. For antiques and crafts, stroll through the Ciampi Antiquarito in Piazza Annigoni. Open daily, this market offers vintage items such as jewelry, prints, and books. If you love leather accessories then you must not miss Cuore di pelle, a small artisan shop located between the Synagogue and Piazza Sant'Ambrogio. Here you can buy bracelets, belts, bags, passport holders, brush holders, bottle holders, wallets and plenty more besides, all obviously made of handsewn leather (www.cuordipelle.com). In Via De' Macci, towards Santa Croce, you must not miss taking a glance at the workshop of Cecilia Falciai, who specialises in working scagliola and in the technique of Florentine mosaic-making (commesso) using semi-precious stones and marble (www.ceciliafalciaiscagliola.com). In Via Sant'Egidio, the historic shop Sbigoli Terrecotte offers a vast range of artistic ceramics, entirely made and decorated by hand, following the Tuscan handicraft tradition of majolica, in other words, terracotta enamelled with medieval and Renaissance decorations, but with more modern influences (www.sbigoliterrecotte.it).

OLTRARNO, ITALIAN TRADITION AT THE TOP

In the districts of the Oltrarno - San Frediano, Santo Spirito and San Niccolò - you breathe the air of a more authentic "Florentine-ness". In this labyrinth of lanes and alleyways you can still find craftsmen and women who conserve and hand down original and sophisticated working methods. The confines between these districts are rather fluid and the Oltrarno can be considered one large sprawling district. Once considered among the most infamous neighbourhoods in the city, today San Frediano has become fashionable, also thanks to the famous Lonely Planet guide, which defined it as "the coolest neighbourhood in the world". In particular, Borgo San Frediano has become renowned both for its traditional artisan shops and for the many venues spread out among its lanes and alleyways, but there is also no shortage of churches and historical monuments. Don't miss the legendary art form with a visit to the Officina Profumo-Farmaceutica di Santa Maria Novella (see photo), a 600-year-old perfumery located in a breathtaking antique structure. Still using ancient recipes to make modern-day perfumes and skincare goods, its products have been famous for centuries.

VIA PORTA ROSSA AND PIAZZA DELLA REPUBBLICA

In the heart of Florence, the network of streets between Via Porta Rossa and Piazza della Repubblica form a paradise for shoppers. Browse through countless luxury stores and marvel at window displays in Via Porta Rossa to find the perfect Florentine souvenir. Don't miss Rinascente, a department store in Piazza della Repubblica that sells the best brands and artisan products in the city, even offering a terrace with a breathtaking panoramic view of the city.

BORGO SS. APOSTOLI

Borgo SS. Apostoli is a road tucked between Ponte Vecchio and Ponte Santa Trinita, a quiet haven in the center of the bustling city. The street contains historic buildings and numerous antique stores that embody Florentine artisanship. Find historic stones, artwork, and leather goods in the traditional stores that line the peaceful road.

BORGO OGNISSANTI, TOP OF ANTIQUES

The street of Borgo Ognissanti runs parallel to the Arno River and is located nearby the Duomo. Considered the "path of opportunity", this area is filled with stores whose products range from flowers to pastries to hardware tools. Discover showrooms that span from antique to contemporary as well as interior design stores. Walk through Piazza Ognissanti, the site of the annual antique fair where global dealers meet to display their traditional paintings and furniture.

Tax Free Refund Guide

According to the Italian law, non-EU resident travellers may be granted VAT relief/refund for goods intended for personal or family use purchased in Italy. This relief is surely an advantage for the foreign travellers: in fact, it allows to save from a minimum of 4% up to a maximum of 22% of the selling price of the goods purchased. Here is a short guide according to the Italian legislation to discover the common system of value added tax exclusively for non-EU resident travellers.

1. VAT (in Italian: IVA) is a value added tax on goods and services, and is part of the European Union's value added tax system.
2. In some cases, travellers may be granted a VAT refund. This refund does not cover the services supplied by hotels, restaurants, taxis or agencies.
3. You may be eligible for a VAT refund provided that:
 - you are a non-EU resident;
 - the goods purchased are intended for personal or family use only and are carried in your luggage;
 - the overall value of the goods purchased exceeds 154,94 Euro (VAT included);
 - the purchase is certified by an invoice. This invoice should include a description of the goods purchased, your personal information as well as the details of your passport or any other equivalent document;

- the goods shall leave the EU territory by the third month following the date of issue of the invoice, as proved by the "customs stamp";
- from 1 September 2018, tax free invoices in Italy must be electronically transmitted by the national seller to OTELO information system (Online Tax Refund at Exit: Light Lane Optimization) and their validation is digitally carried out.
- after the digital "customs stamp" is obtained, OTELO will send a message to the retailer that all the requirements are met and, as a consequence, the retailer will reimburse the amount due or will settle the tax relief.
- the invoice is returned to the Italian retailer within four months after the purchase was made. If the invoice is stamped by other EU countries, it needs to be brought to the shop retailer by the fourth month following that of the purchase.
- 4. The goods purchased and the relevant invoice must be shown at the customs exit point when leaving EU territory (if you intend to pack the purchased items into your check-in luggage, you must go to Customs BEFORE checking in).
- 5. After leaving EU territory, the traveller must return the original invoice, regularly endorsed by the customs office, to the Italian retailer. Said invoice must be returned within four months from the date when the - document was issued.

- 6. The refund can be made directly by the Italian retailer (however, make sure that the shop you've chosen displays a "Tax Free Shopping" or "Euro Tax Free" sign in its window).
- 7. Several Tax-Free companies are able to offer immediate VAT cash refunds when the goods leave either Italian or EU territory (thus exonerating the passenger from having to return the invoice to the retailer). However, this procedure only applies at major international airports or main border crossings. Most major department stores have Tax Free Refund offices.
- 8. The services provided by Tax-Free companies imply the payment of a small administrative sum which is directly deducted from the amount of VAT refunded to the traveller.
- 9. In the event of a traveller not receiving a VAT refund within a reasonable period of time, he or she should re-contact the Italian retailer or one of the aforementioned companies.
- 10. However, please note, VAT cannot be refunded directly by customs offices.

FOOD & WINE

One restaurant, three souls

High-quality ingredients from small Tuscan farms and an elegant, welcoming environment make Foody Farm the ideal place for an appetising break at any time of day. By Giulia Minero

Don't let yourself be deceived by the antique ceilings or the vintage tables, because Foody Farm's proposals could not be more innovative. This restaurant, a few yards from the Ponte Vecchio, with its modern furnishings, its petrol blue coloured velvet seats, mosaics and wrought iron details, makes the rediscovery of Tuscan raw materials, combined to bring innovative recipes to life, its distinctive feature. Then the absence of a traditional dining approach envisaging hors d'oeuvres, first and main courses, makes the restaurant's proposals dynamic and highly personalisable. The specialities range from street food to tartares, as well as salads, home-made pasta, cheeses and meats, with a selection of vegetarian offers, all based on local ingredients from carefully selected small Tuscan farms. Inside the restaurant three souls coexist, which are perfect to respond to guests' requirements at any time of day. BreakFarm, for example, is available every day from 7am to 10.30am and envisages an innovative format based on the international buffet breakfast with sweet and savoury food, while Farmology reinterprets the classic concept of aperitifs or after dinner drinks proposing cocktails of balanced ingredients mixed in glass, then served in bottles at temperatures that differ according to the preparation.

Santa Elisabetta

Il Palagio

Borgo Pinti, 99. T: 055 2626450
www.ilpalagioristorante.it

Inside the Hotel Four Seasons, in a sophisticated environment with tables both indoors and outdoors, Il Palagio bases itself on a culinary proposal that looks to the Italian and regional tradition with a touch of modernity, as in the terrine of foie gras with Vin Santo gelée or cheese and pepper cavatelli with red shrimps and baby squid. Chef Vito Mollica offers a menu that is a symphony of flavours, raw materials and colours, at times venturing far beyond the confines of Tuscany with dishes based on truffle, wagyu beef or three kinds of caviar. The wine menu includes more than 400 labels, 50 of which also served by the glass.

In addition to the historic and well established Enoteca Pinchiorri, with its prestigious three Michelin stars, there are six other Florentine restaurants that have been awarded one star. Let's enjoy them together.

Enoteca Pinchiorri

Via Ghibellina, 87. T: 055 242757
enotecapinchiorri.it

How do you manage to be honoured with three Michelin stars, the highest recognition, which is only achieved by a hundred restaurants worldwide? In the case of the Enoteca Pinchiorri, it comes from the winning combination of prime quality raw materials, the search for innovation, yet without forgetting the territory's (great) culinary tradition, obsessive attention to every detail and an unrivalled wine menu, which includes highly prized labels, along with others that are little known but equally interesting. Then we can add the fact that the restaurant is located inside the 18th-century Palazzo Jacometti-Ciofi and that its desserts are a delight for the senses.

romantic evening. In this case the winning recipe is one that blends creativity, tradition and quality ingredients (lamb in sea water or Bresse rooster and octopus are an example of this), all washed down with wines chosen from a cellar of 900 labels. You can opt for the tasting menu (the potato-based one is unmissable) or à la carte.

Gucci Osteria da Massimo Bottura

Piazza della Signoria, 10. T: 055 75927038
www.gucci.com/it/it/store/osteria-bottura

Located inside inside the Gucci Garden, the creative liaison between Gucci and Bottura celebrates two things Italy is renowned for: fashion and fine cuisine. Head of the team is Mexican chef Karime Lopez Kondo. The menu is an explosive blend of flavours ranging from Italy to the Orient and offers cosmopolitan tidbits such as the "Taka-ban", the classic Japanese steamed bun with pork belly and spicy sauce, or marinated Adriatic palamita with tortilla or fried aubergines in shiso sauce. In a very intimate setting, the bistro plays around the tones of green and pistachio and can welcome up to 35 diners indoors.

Chic Nonna di Vito Mollica at Palazzo Portinari Salviati (Corte degli Imperatori)

chicnonna.com

A restaurant focused on fine dining, run by Executive Chef Vito Mollica, whose philosophy is to use raw materials of exceptional quality; the aim is to create seasonal menus with a traditional yet international flavour, presented with a haute cuisine style. It is here that Vito Mollica creates his most ambitious dishes, thanks to that combination of technique and childhood memories that made him appreciated by national critics and earned him his first Michelin Star in 2011.

The menu is à la carte, with a choice of two tasting courses, one traditional and one vegetarian.

TUSCAN CUISINE

Benedicta

EDITOR'S TIP The Benedicta restaurant, to which the Michelin Guide 2017 assigned 3 forks, is a pearl hidden away in a side street near Santa Maria Novella, inside the Rivoli Boutique Hotel. Italian and Tuscan cuisine revisited in a contemporary vein, with a menu based on locally sourced ingredients that changes every two months depending on the season. Open 7.30pm-11pm; closed on Sun. From late April to October you can dine in the romantic flower garden. €€. www.ristorantebenedicta.it. Via Benedetta 12/r. T: 055 2645429. Map D2

Bordino Trattoria

High up in a little street just a stone's throw from the Ponte Vecchio, the Trattoria Bordino is always crowded with both locals and tourists because of its quality food at very affordable prices. The dishes are traditional, with bistecca alla fiorentina grilled directly on wood charcoal the speciality. A wide selection of Italian wines accompanies the dishes in a pleasant, relaxed environment. €€. www.trattoriabordino.it. Via Stracciatella, 9/r. T: 055 213048. Map F5

Camillo

A historic Florentine trattoria not far from Ponte Vecchio. Inside it is as if time stood still: the (very long) menu has practically all the classic Tuscan recipes, plus a few you wouldn't expect like prawn curry with pilaf rice, actually one of Camillo's signature dishes. Also very good are the croutons with chicken livers, the ribollita, tripe, bistecca alla fiorentina and stuffed rabbit. €€. Borgo San Jacopo, 57/r. T: 055 212427. Map E5

Cibrèo Ristorante

In Florence and in the area near the Market of Sant'Ambrogio, Cibrèo is a trademark for eating well. The Cibrèo Restaurant offers territorial and regional cuisine that is sincere and vigorous, with no fear of strong ingredients such as olive oil, garlic or Tuscan kale, drenched in personality, in the image of its founder Fabio Picchi. The products are strictly seasonal and arrive from rigorously selected farm, fisheries, sheep and cattle breeders. €€. www.cibreo.com/ristorante. Via Andrea del Verrocchio, 8/r. T: 055 2341100. Map L3

Da Burde

The menu changes with the mood of the kitchen, and the seasons. Here you'll find croutons with chicken livers, fiorentina, pappa col pomodoro, and ribollita. Highlighted by the Michelin Guide as excellent value for money, the atmosphere has remained that of the early 1900's, as has the food, simple but rich in flavour. A well-stocked cantina, with Tuscan and Piedmontese wines but also French, including some fine champagne. €€. www.vinodaburde.com. Via Pistoiese, 154. T: 055 317206.

Latini (II)

Historic trattoria near Santa Maria Novella highlighted in the Michelin Guide. Besides bistecca alla fiorentina, there are pork chops and ribs on the Il Latini grill, as well as roast beef or lamb. Also available are Florentine tripe and peposo (peppery Tuscan beef stew), depending on the season. The cantina is well stocked with the best Tuscan wines, autochthonous and non, as well as the big French labels. €€. www.illatini.com. Via dei Palchetti, 6. T: 055 210916. Map D3

Lungarno23

In the splendid setting of Lungarno Torrigiani, this restaurant is famous for its Chianina meat hamburgers, which are certified with the I.G.P. mark and come from small local farms. L'Ortone

Situated in the emerging San Ambrogio foodie district, opposite the charming street market, the menu is based on typical Tuscan dishes, with a focus on traditional first courses and grilled specialities, including of course the fiorentina. If you want to try something more adventurous you can't go wrong with the pork liver confit with kale and Boretto onions. €€. www.lortone.it. Piazza Lorenzo Ghiberti 87/r. Tuscani 3 (I)

If you love "ciccia" (which is what Tuscans call red meat), you must not miss this steakhouse and delicatessen that is very famous in the city. Located in the heart of the historic centre, a few steps from Piazza della Repubblica, it obviously offers the typical bistecca alla fiorentina but also selections of Tuscan pork, cured meat boards or steak tartare and hamburger made rigorously with Chianina meat. €€. <http://ituscani3.com>. Antica Mescita San Niccolò

Ever wanted to eat lunch in a 1000 AD Romanesque crypt? In Florence you can, at the Antica Mescita San Niccolò, which also used to serve as a customs post for wine originating from Chianti. Naturally, the wine is excellent and predominately Tuscan and the food also reflects the season and the local territory, with dishes such as cold cuts and mixed cheeses, ribollita, bistecca alla fiorentina and lampredotto, to name just a few. €€. www.osteriasanniccolo.it. Buca Lapi

This is one of Florence's oldest eating places. Crafted out of the wine cellars of the Renaissance Palazzo Antinori, it still preserves traces of over a century of history thanks to the meticulous restoration of the internal frescoes. Buca Lapi is particularly popular with lovers of the real fiorentina, but the other local Tuscan dishes are worth trying too, such as croutons, ribollita or wild boar with polenta. €€. www.bucalapi.com.

For years ordinary folk have rubbed shoulders with famous names beneath the bare brick ceilings of Buca Mario to enjoy simple, genuine Florentine cuisine (although you can still request a private room for up to ten people in classic 16th-century Florentine style). Florentine food terms

Buca Mario

'Lampre...' what's that? Florence has a multitude of culinary specialities of peasant origin that are still very popular in the city today. Some are so niche as to be unknown outside Florence, let alone to foreigners. So we've decided to put together a glossary of Florentine food terms to help you find your way among the soups, animal parts you never thought you could eat and distinctive eateries. By Chiara Zaccarelli

BISTECCA ALLA FIORENTINA

This is one of the most iconic dishes in Florence cuisine. The succulent steak is obtained from a specific cut of a young Chianina cow, a part of the loin near the backbone which has a T-bone in the middle. It should be grilled at a very high temperature, so that a fine crust forms rapidly on the meat. All the flavour of this dish depends on the cooking: the meat must be brown on the outside but red, soft and juicy on the inside, hot, but not cooked through. It should also be at least 3 or 4 cms thick, and weigh between 1.2 kg and 1.5 kgs. At a restaurant you pay for a fiorentina by weight: an average price to be sure of getting the real thing is around 50 euros a kilo.

CANTUCCI

This is one of the best-known cake recipes in Tuscan cuisine. The finger-shaped almond biscuits are made by slicing up a long roll of baked dough while still hot. The dough is made with flour, sugar, eggs, butter and raw almonds, not toasted or shelled. Tuscans normally dunk their 'cantucci' in a fortified local wine called Vin Santo made from dried grapes. You can find them in any bakery or local foods shop.

CIBREO

A dish for strong stomachs, Cibreo is a typical main course of Florentine "poor cuisine" containing liver, chicken hearts, crests, eggs, lemon juice and onion. Even though presented like that it seems to be an inauspicious mixture, it is famous for having been one of the favourite dishes of Caterina de' Medici, who attempted - unsuccessfully - to export it to France and it seems she was so fond of it that it gave her indigestion a number of times.

LAMPREDOTTO

This is Florentine street food par excellence. But watch out, it's not for weak stomachs. Actually it's a cow's fourth stomach, known as the 'abomaso', cooked in a herb broth and most commonly served in a panino soaked in the broth or topped with the local parsley-based green sauce. Historically a poor man's dish, it is still very popular in Florence today thanks to the numerous open-air kiosks known as 'lampredottai', doing a roaring trade with Florentines as well as tourists who can't wait to try this speciality, accompanied by the obligatory glass of wine.

PAPPA COL POMODORO

On the face of it this is just another variant of bread and tomatoes. But until you've tried this soup made of stale bread (unsalted), tomatoes, garlic, basil, extra virgin Tuscan olive oil, salt and pepper, you'll never guess how good it is. Everyone loves this tasty, genuine dish, including the kids. So much so there's even a popular children's song all about it.

RIBOLLITA

Another delicious country dish typical of Florence and the whole of central Tuscany is ribollita, a soup made of stale bread, kale and beans (borlotti, toscanelli or cannellini). 'Ribollita' literally means boiled several times. The name derives from the fact that in the old days peasants used to make a large pot and serve it, heated up, over a number of days, each time tastier than before.

SCHIACCIATA

This simple focaccia baked in a wood oven and dressed with olive oil and salt is a great favourite with Florentines, who eat it on its own or stuffed with salumi and cheeses, either as a quick lunch or substantial snack. Again, like many traditional Florentine recipes, it is based on a horror of wasting any left over bread dough. In Florence you'll find it at any baker's, but of course everyone has their own preference: soft and well oiled, crisp and salty, or made with ancient grains. Just try it to decide which is your favourite!

Historic cellars for foodies

Florence's cantine, where in the past the well to do kept their wine, salumi and meats, haven't lost their vocation as custodians of fine taste. The majority, with dining rooms located beneath street level, are still called "buca", although some have become proper restaurants, with menus (and prices) more suited to international visitors, while others still offer simple, authentic Florentine home cooking.

Buca Lapi

Antica Mescita San Niccolò - Ever wanted to eat lunch in a 1000 AD Romanesque crypt? In Florence you can, at the Antica Mescita San Niccolò, which also used to serve as a customs post for wine originating from Chianti. Naturally, the wine is excellent and predominately Tuscan and the food also reflects the season and the local territory, with dishes such as cold cuts and mixed cheeses, ribollita, bistecca alla fiorentina and lampredotto, to name just a few.

Buca Lapi - Buca Lapi is one of Florence's oldest eating places. Crafted out of the wine cellars of the Renaissance Palazzo Antinori, it still preserves traces of over a century of history thanks to the meticulous restoration of the internal frescoes. Buca Lapi is particularly popular with lovers of the real fiorentina, but the other local Tuscan dishes are worth trying too, such as croutons, ribollita or wild boar with polenta. The bill won't be particularly easy on the pocket, especially if you go for the steak, but as we know quality doesn't come cheap.

Buca Mario - For years ordinary folk have rubbed shoulders with famous names beneath the bare brick ceilings of Buca Mario to enjoy simple, genuine Florentine cuisine (although you can still request a private room for up to ten people in classic 16th-century Florentine style). The bistecca alla fiorentina is excellent, as is the ribollita or pappardelle with Maremma boar ragù.

Buca Poldo - A few yards from Piazza della Signoria and Ponte Vecchio, Buca Poldo serves characteristic Tuscan dishes including ribollita, pappa al pomodoro, fiorentina and boar stew, as well as a few forays into other regional cuisines. Although the majority of the courses are meat based, some fish dishes are also available. The kitchen is open on two sides, so that diners can watch the chefs at work.

Buca San Giovanni

Buca San Giovanni is another of Italy's historic restaurants. Originally the sacristy of the nearby Baptistery of Saint John opposite Florence cathedral, it was also the Rosicrucian masons' secret initiation venue and countless notables from Florence and elsewhere have enjoyed a meal under its ancient vaults. There is no lack of classic dishes such as ossobuco alla fiorentina (oxtail) and stracotto al Chianti (beef braised in Chianti), but the cuisine also stretches to other Italian regional specialities, such as bucatini all'amatriciana, spaghetti alla carbonara or linguine al pesto.

Buca San Giovanni

Fiaschetteria Nuvoli - Just a few steps from Piazza Duomo is an obligatory destination for anyone who has ever wondered what Florence's old wine cellars were really like in the past. Open from 8.30 in the morning until evening, it serves typical Tuscan specialities such as chicken liver croutons, cold cuts, tagliatelle al ragù, fried chicken or brains, ribollita, pappa col pomodoro and roast porchetta. There is also a vast choice of Tuscan wines, also available for aperitifs.

Ristorante Buca dell'Orafo - A few yards from Ponte Vecchio, in an old goldsmith's workshop inside the walls of a 13th century palace, is the restaurant Buca dell'Orafo. Traditional Tuscan dishes and menus that vary depending on the season testify to the quality of the ingredients. Don't miss the ribollita, the maltagliati (flat, irregular offcuts of pasta), autumn mushrooms and taglierini with fresh spring peas.

ENTERTAINMENT & TOURS

Cheers to the new Paszkowski

Since 1846, quality and tradition have been combined at the Caffè Concerto Paszkowski, an unmissable destination for breakfast, a snack or an aperitif with an authentically Florentine spirit.

First inaugurated with the name Caffè Centrale, given its position in the heart of Piazza della Repubblica, the Caffè Concerto Paszkowski took on its current identity in 1903, when the Società Toscana C. Paszkowski per la Fabbricazione e la Vendita di Birra purchased it, to transform it into a café concerto and then a literary café. From that moment on, the venue welcomed high-profile figures of the calibre of D'Annunzio, Montale, Saba and Pratolini. A further demonstration of its historical value arrived in 1991, when it became one of the Locali Storici d'Italia. Today, in its sophisticated rooms, which have recently undergone a conservative restoration, it hosts a Café with an attached tea room, a cocktail bar and a restaurant. The first, today, as yesterday, is the ideal place to treat yourself to a coffee prepared respecting the best Italian tradition, accompanied by a selection of home-made sweet and savoury pastry delights. The ritual of the aperitif takes place every day in the cocktail bar, with drinks ranging from the great classics to signature cocktails, together with a selection of beers. The classic dishes of the tradition and the proposals that have contributed to the history of the café, with the addition of contemporary offerings, become the protagonists of the Restaurant under the skilful guidance of chef Fabio Barbagnini. Here particular attention is reserved for the selecting of high-quality raw materials, prepared with cooking processes and methods that bring out their flavour without altering their properties.

CONCERT VENUES & THEATRES

Teatro Comunale

The Teatro Comunale di Firenze is the city's largest theatre. Overall, it occupies approximately half a block between corso Italia, via Magenta and via Solferino. The main theatre has seating for around 1800, but also part of the complex is a foyer called the "Piccolo Teatro", which can hold a little under 600 spectators. The name "Comunale" [Municipal] dates back to 1933, when the Florentine Maggio Musicale was established (see entry), but the theatre itself dates back to the second half of the 19th century. www.operadifirenze.it. Amid faith, art and history

Universally recognised as one of the locations symbolising the city, consecrated in 1059 in honour of its patron, Saint John, the Baptistery of San Giovanni is one of the oldest places of worship in Florence. By Giulia Minero

Located opposite the complex of Santa Maria del Fiore, the Baptistery owes part of its renown to its particular octagonal plan structure - typical of the baptisteries of antiquity - surmounted by a pyramidal dome consisting of eight segments, the richly decorated interior of which bears the signatures of great Renaissance artists of the calibre of Cimabue and Coppo di Marcovaldo. Among the masterpieces contained in it, in addition to the funerary monument in memory of the "Antipope" John XXIII created by Michelozzo and Donatello, the precious gilded mosaics of the dome representing the Angelic Hierarchies and Universal Judgement stand out, dominated by the great figure of Christ the Judge. The exterior of the Baptistery, on the other hand, entirely covered in slabs of white marble from Carrara and green marble from Prato, is famous for its three bronze doors, of immense historical and artistic value. The South Door, by Andrea Pisano, dating back to 1330, illustrates the life of Saint John the Baptist in 28 inlaid panels, the North Door, by Lorenzo Ghiberti, imagines the life and passion of Christ through 20 panels, and with a further eight, the four evangelists and four "fathers of the church", while the East Door, located opposite the Cathedral and known by the epithet conferred on it by Michelangelo, of "Porta del Paradiso" (Gate of Paradise), consists of ten gilded panels representing scenes from the Old Testament.

ATTRACTIONS & MONUMENTS

Duomo and Cupola

Completed in 1436, the religious building, whose official name is "Cathedral of Santa Maria del Fiore", is third in terms of dimensions after St. Peter's in Rome and St Paul's Cathedral in London. The most important artists of the period participated in its creation (the bell tower is by Giotto), while the famous multi-coloured marble façade dates back to the 19th century. Brunelleschi's Dome, still the tallest construction in the city, is a symbol known all over the world: it is possible to climb to the top (exclusively on foot) up its 463 steps. www.ilgrandemuseodelduomo.it. Piazza del Duomo, 3/5-6. T: 055 2302885. Map F2

Battistero

Located opposite the Cathedral of Santa Maria del Fiore, the Baptistery of St. John the Baptist is the building that completes the considerably striking appearance of the square. Its origins are uncertain, but its first official dating is at least in the 12th century. It is characterised by an octagonal plan, lined with a dome of eight segments, covered by a pyramid roof. The outside is decorated with white marble from Carrara and green marble from Prato, characteristics of the Florentine architecture of the Romanesque period. It has three famous doors, sumptuously decorated, and an interior that, with its marble and mosaics, is reminiscent of that of the Pantheon. Used in antiquity for the investiture of knights and poets, its praises are sung by Dante in the Divine Comedy. www.ilgrandemuseodelduomo.it. Piazza di San Giovanni, 8. T: 055 2302885. Map F2

Campanile di Giotto

84.70 metres high and around 15 wide, a manifestation of 14th-century Florentine Gothic architecture, the Giotto's bell tower is one of the four main components of the complex of Santa Maria del Fiore, in piazza del Duomo. Lined with white, red and green marble, like that adorning the Cathedral, the majestic square-based bell tower, designed by Giotto in 1334, can be visited by climbing no less than 414 stairs up to the top, from where you can enjoy extraordinary views of Brunelleschi's Dome. www.ilgrandemuseodelduomo.it. Piazza del Duomo. T: 055 2302885. Map F3

Piazza della Signoria

This is the central square of Florence, the seat of civil power and social heart of the city. L-shaped, it is located at the centre of medieval Florence south of the Cathedral. Already important in the Roman Age, the square has been gradually enhanced over the centuries; facing onto it are Palazzo Vecchio (see entry), the splendid Loggia della Signoria, the Tribunale della Mercanzia, Palazzo Uguccioni and Palazzo delle Assicurazioni Generali. Also prominent in the square are the Fountain of Neptune and a series of statues of Renaissance origin, representing one of the most important sculptural cycles in the world. The most famous is certainly Michelangelo's David: the one on display in its original position is a copy, whereas the original is conserved in the Galleria dell'Accademia. Map F4-G4

Palazzo Vecchio

Located in piazza della Signoria, today it is the seat of the Municipal Council of Florence. It is the finest synthesis of 14th-century civil architecture and is one of the best known civic buildings in the world. Its imposing façade, abounding in history, the charm of its magnificent courtyards and its precious interiors make it a site visited daily by hundreds of people.

Ponte Vecchio

There has been a bridge at this point of the River Arno ever since before the year one thousand; yet, between floods and reconstructions, the official date of foundation of the current Ponte Vecchio is given as 1345. For the entire Middle Ages the bridge hosted greengrocers', fishmongers' and butchers' shops, who used the river to dispose of their waste in a hurry. At the end of the 16th century, however, when it became the "noble" zone of the city, the goldsmiths and jewellers started to arrive, and they have been there uninterrupted to this day. To celebrate this history, on prominent display on the bridge is a bust of Benvenuto Cellini, the greatest goldsmith of the Renaissance. Access is gained to the bridge between via Por Santa Maria and Lungarno degli Archibusieri and between Borgo San Jacopo and via de' Guicciardini. Map F5

Palazzo Pitti and Giardino di Boboli

The symbol of wealth and power, the building was inhabited by the Medici, then by the Habsburg-Lorraines and, after the Unity of Italy, by the Savoy family. The original architecture dates back to the 15th century and "Pitti" is the surname of its first owner. The building is located on the left bank of the river, at the foot of Boboli Hill. They are one of the most important examples of Italian-style gardens in the world and are considered a genuine open-air museum. Currently they are the site of four different museums: the Treasury of the Grand Dukes, the Palatine Gallery and the Royal Apartments, the Gallery of Modern Art and the Museum of Fashion and Costume. They are connected to Forte di Belvedere. www.uffizi.it/palazzo-pitti. Piazza de' Pitti, 1. T: 055 294883. Map E6

Piazzale Michelangelo

Piazzale Michelangelo is the most famous and appreciated panoramic point in Florence, with its views seen all over the world in million of postcards and reproductions. Dedicated to the city's most famous artist, the square has bronze copies of some of Michelangelo's most famous sculptures. Access to the Piazzale can be gained by car, along the tree-lined Viale Michelangelo, or on foot, by climbing the monumental flight of steps known as the "Rampe del Poggi". Map I7

San Miniato al Monte

Not far from Piazzale Michelangelo, stands the Abbey of San Miniato al Monte, a medieval religious building situated at one of the highest panoramic points in Florence. The most spectacular access is gained via the monumental flight of steps (which is not advisable, however, for those with problems walking). The outside of the church is decorated with green and white marble, typical of Florentine Romanesque, while a 12th-century mosaic decorates the central part of the façade. www.sanminiatoalmon.te.it. Mercato Centrale

Built at the end of the 19th century, the project was entrusted to Giuseppe Mengoni, the architect of the Galleria Vittorio Emanuele in Milan, who was inspired by Les Halles in Paris. Since 2014, on the first floor of the historic covered market there has been a complex containing dozens of small restaurants, leisure activities and street food options, and this has now become a point of reference for informal but good quality cuisine for both Florentines and tourists. www.mercatocentrale.it. Palazzo Pitti and its dynasties

A palace for three dynasties, Palazzo Pitti is an extraordinary building located in the Oltremo district, at the foot of the Boboli Hill. The famous Boboli Gardens, which are the park of the palace, take their name from this hill. Palazzo Pitti contains four different museums: the Treasures of the Grand Dukes (ground floor and mezzanine) with vases made of semi-precious stones, rock crystals, ambers and ivories and an exceptional collection of Oriental porcelains; the Palatine Gallery and Monumental Apartments (noble floor) with the world's largest concentration of works by Raphael, the Gallery of Modern Art (second floor) hosting an important group of paintings by the Macchiaioli school; the Museum of Fashion and Costume (Palazzina della Meridiana) with 6,000 items from the 18th century to today. Open Tues-Sun 8.15am-6.50pm. www.uffizi.it/palazzo-pitti. Piazza de' Pitti, 1. Map E6

Together with Santa Maria Novella, San Lorenzo and Santo Spirito, it is one of the “great basilicas”, a point of reference of the Franciscan order: a radiant example of Tuscan Gothic, it owes its sober appearance of wooden trusses and terracotta floors to Franciscan charisma. Giotto painted some of his great masterpieces here and the French writer Stendhal experienced that profound artistic agitation that has been known since then as the “Stendhal syndrome”. The basilica contains the monumental sepulchres of Michelangelo, Galileo and Machiavelli. www.santacroceopera.it. Piazza Santa Croce, 16. T: 055 2466105. Map H4

Santa Maria Novella

Together with Santa Croce, San Lorenzo and Santo Spirito, it is one of the “great basilicas”, a point of reference of the Dominican order. Its foundation dates back to the end of the 13th century but work on it continued for centuries, so the church, with its elegant façade by Leon Battista Alberti, is a harmonious synthesis of Gothic and Renaissance styles. The church of Santa Maria Novella hosts exceptional works of art by Masaccio, Giotto, Brunelleschi, Filippino Lippi, Domenico Ghirlandaio and Paolo Uccello. www.smn.it. Santo Spirito

Together with Santa Croce, San Lorenzo and Santa Maria Novella, it is one of the “great basilicas”, a point of reference of the Augustinian order. The church has given its name to the entire surrounding neighbourhood, “Borgo Santo Spirito”, located “Oltrarno”, that is on the left bank of the river. A jewel of Renaissance architecture, the church was the last great project by Filippo Brunelleschi. www.basilicasantospirito.it. Piazza Santo Spirito, 30. T: 055 210030. Map D5

San Lorenzo

Together with Santa Croce, Santo Spirito and Santa Maria Novella, it is one of the “great basilicas” of Florence, founded, according to the tradition, by Saint Ambrose, the first bishop of Milan, in the fourth century AD: it is therefore one of the oldest churches in the city. Its current appearance, however, is the result of the last major reconstruction work that took place in the 15th century at the wishes of the Medici and under the direction of the great architect Filippo Brunelleschi. Its bare stone façade was intended to receive a rich marble decoration designed by Michelangelo, which unfortunately was never executed. The interior is a masterpiece, also embellished by sculptures by Donatello of rare expressive intensity. www.operamedicealorenziana.org. Piazza di San Lorenzo, 9. Fondazione Palazzo Strozzi

Palazzo Strozzi is one of the finest examples of private architecture of the Renaissance and a dynamic cultural centre that hosts international level exhibitions, ranging from ancient art to the Renaissance, to contemporary art. Always present are an exhibition devoted to Palazzo Strozzi, the café and the museum shop, which looks out onto the Renaissance courtyard, where concerts, performances, contemporary art installations and theatrical plays are organised. Open daily and holidays 10am-8pm, Thurs 10am-11pm. Museum full ticket price: €12. www.palazzostrozzi.org. Piazza Strozzi. T: 055 2645155. Map E3

Forte di Belvedere

At the end of the 16th century, Ferdinando de' Medici commissioned Bernardo Buontalenti to design a fortress on the top of Boboli Hil. The fort currently hosts top-level events and exhibitions. Open exclusively on the occasion of temporary exhibitions. Full ticket price: €3. www.museiciviciorentini.comune.fi.it. Via San Leonardo, 1. Map F7

Galleria degli Uffizi

The Gallery occupies the whole of the first and second floors of the large building erected between 1560 and 1580 based on a project by Giorgio Vasari; it is one of the most famous museums in the world on account of its extraordinary collections of ancient sculptures and paintings. The collections of paintings from the 14th century and the Renaissance contain a number of absolute masterpieces: from Giotto to Botticelli, from Leonardo to Canaletto. There are also important collections by German, Dutch and Flemish painters, including Dürer, Rembrandt and Rubens. Open Tues-Sun 8.15am-6.50pm. Closed on Mondays. Museum full ticket price: €20. www.uffizi.it. Piazzale degli Uffizi, 6. T: 055 23885. Map F5

Galleria dell'Accademia di Firenze

The Galleria owes its vast popularity to the presence of a number of sculptures by Michelangelo: the Prisoners, St. Matthew, but above the famous David, transported here from Piazza della Signoria (where it was replaced by a faithful copy) in August 1873. Housed in the adjacent premises are works coming from the Academy of Design, the Academy of Fine Arts and the convents themselves, which were abolished in the Napoleonic Age. And also, the Gipsoteca, or Hall of Models, the collection of Russian icons and musical instruments of the courts of the Medici and Lorena families. Open Tues-Sun

8.15am-6.50pm. Closed on Mondays. Museum full ticket price: €12. www.galleriaaccademiafirenze.beniculturali.it. Via Ricasoli, 58/60. T: 055 2388609/612. Map G2

Museo degli Innocenti

The Museum is located in the ancient Spedale degli Innocenti, designed by Brunelleschi. Opened in 1445 as a refuge for abandoned children, today it continues its function as the “Institute of the Innocents”. The museum itinerary combines the documentary and historical-artistic heritage, and in its Gallery hosts precious artworks by Sandro Botticelli, Domenico Ghirlandaio, Bartolomeo di Giovanni, Piero di Cosimo, Neri di Bicci and Luca and Andrea della Robbia. EDITOR'S TIP On the terrace the elegant Caffè del Verone offers beautiful panoramic views. Museo dell'Opificio delle Pietre Dure

An elegant collection of works made of semi-precious stones and multi-coloured marble and scagliola, paintings on stone and oil paintings, instruments, plus an extensive collection of stone samples. The works are displayed in chronological order from the early 17th century to the 1880s. Open Mon-Sat 8.15am-2pm. Closed on Sundays and holidays. www.opificiodellepietredure.it. Via degli Alfani, 78. T: 055 218709. Map H1

Museo di Palazzo Vecchio

For over seven centuries Palazzo della Signoria, or Palazzo Vecchio, has been the symbol of the city's civil power, and today it is still the seat of the Municipal Council of Florence. Built in 1299, over time it has undergone numerous enlargement and transformation projects. Along its labyrinthine routes are rooms and private environments sumptuously decorated by some of the most famous artists of the Florentine Renaissance, with period furnishings and exceptional masterpieces. Open daily, 9am-11pm; Thursdays throughout the year: 9am-2pm. Museum full ticket price: €10. www.museiciviciorentini.comune.fi.it. Piazza della Signoria. T: 055 2768325. Map G4

Museo di Santa Maria Novella

The complex of Santa Maria Novella includes the 13th-century Dominican Basilica and the monumental cloisters. The church contains extraordinary works such as Giotto's Crucifix, Masaccio's Holy Trinity, Brunelleschi's Crucifix, the Tornabuoni Chapel by Ghirlandaio and his workshop and the Strozzi Chapel by Filippino Lippi. The cloisters present rare examples of the Florentine painting of the 14th and 15th centuries. Open: Mon-Thurs 9am-7pm. Full ticket price: €7.50. www.smn.it, www.museiciviciorentini.comune.fi.it. Museo Giardini di Boboli

Stretching out behind Pitti Palace are the marvellous Boboli Gardens. It was the Medici who were first responsible for designing their layout, creating the model of the Italian-style garden that was to become an example for many European courts. Populated by ancient and Renaissance statues, adorned with grottos - including the famous Buontalenti Grotto - and large fountains, such as those of Neptune and the Ocean, they are a genuine open-air museum. The terraced area includes the Rococò pavilion known as the Kaffeehaus and the Limonaia, the Lemon House. At the centre of the Rose Garden is the Palazzina del Cavaliere, which houses the Porcelain Museum. Closed first and last Monday of the month. Full ticket price: €10. www.uffizi.it. Piazza Pitti, 1. T: 055 23885. Map E6

Museo Nazionale del Bargello

This imposing building, built between the 13th and 14th centuries as the seat of the Podestà and the Council of Justice, was a lowly prison between 1574 and 1858. The Museum conserves a highly important collection of Renaissance sculptures, with masterpieces by Donatello, Luca della Robbia, Verrocchio, Michelangelo, Cellini and Giambologna, and prestigious collections of “lesser arts”. Open daily 8.15am-1.50pm. Museum full ticket price: €9. www.bargellomusei.beniculturali.it/musei/1/bargello. Via del Proconsolo, 4. T: 055 282902. Map G4

Museo Salvatore Ferragamo

This is a museum devoted to the history of the Ferragamo company, to the life of its founder, Salvatore Ferragamo, and to his creations. Every year it organises exhibitions that investigate the relationship between fashion and art. The museum is situated in Palazzo Spini Feroni (1289) – which was purchased by Ferragamo in 1938 to make it the headquarters for his company and his workshop – and in its rooms it displays masterpieces of Florentine art from the 17th and 18th centuries. Open daily 10am-7.30pm. Full ticket price €6. www.ferragamo.com/museo. Palazzo Spini Feroni, Piazza Santa Trinita, 5/r. T: 055 3562-846/466. Map E4

Museo Stefano Bardini

A connoisseur of art and an unbridled merchant in antiquities, Stefano Bardini (1836-1922) donated his private collection to Florence, where it was displayed in the Neo-Renaissance building that housed his antiquarian gallery. There are over 2000 items there, including sculptures, paintings and objects of applied arts, from ancient art to that of the 18th century, with a major presence of works from the Middle Ages and the Renaissance. Open Fri-Sat-Sun-Mon 11am-5pm. Full ticket price €6. www.museiciviciorentini.comune.fi.it. Via dei Renai, 37 (Ponte alle Grazie). T: 055 2342427. Map G6

Orsanmichele

A unique, extraordinary monument, in which civil and religious functions are combined. Built as a granary, in the mid-14th century it was consecrated for Christian worship. On the ground floor the Church houses a grandiose marble tabernacle by Orcagna. The originals of the numerous sculptures (works by famous Florentine artists from the 15th and 16th centuries) that adorned the niches outside on the four sides of the imposing stone cube are conserved in the museum on the first floor. On the second floor you can enjoy a fine panoramic view of Santa Maria del Fiore. Classical music concerts are held here. Church (ground floor): open daily 10am-4.50pm. Free entry. www.bargellomusei.beniculturali.it/musei/3/orsanmichele. Via dell'Arte della Lana, 1. T: 055 2388606. Map F4

MAPS & INFO

The museum city

Within its historic centre (declared a “Unesco world heritage site” en bloc) Florence contains a unique concentration of historical and artistic attractions. Here is some guidance for you to enjoy it.

Florence’s labyrinthine plan, made up of alleyways and sidestreets, derives from its medieval origins. Yet the city’s period of maximum splendour was undoubtedly the Renaissance, of which countless masterpieces remain. With less than four hundred thousand inhabitants and covering an area of little more than a hundred square kilometres, Florence is practically impossible to tour by car, and in fact the centre is to a large extent prohibited to vehicle traffic. We suggest, if possible, that you tour it on foot, to best enjoy its beauties, but you can also count on quite an efficient public transport network (which, however, is severely limited during the nighttime hours, so take care after midnight). Taxis and bikes can reach all the strategic points, whereas private cars are usually only allowed into the centre to load and unload your luggage at your hotel (but always ask your concierge, also so you can receive indications of where the car parks are located in the centre). To find your way around the city, it is a good idea to keep well in mind that Florence is developed along the two banks of the River Arno. All the roads that run alongside the river, on both sides, are called “Lungarno” and it is only the second part of the name that changes. Lungarno degli Archibugieri, for example, is right in the centre: it is there that the Vasari Corridor passes and the Uffizi looks out over it. The whole area on the other side of the river, to the south, is called “Oltrarno” by the Florentines. It was originally outside the historic centre, but today it contains important attractions, such as Pitti Palace, the Boboli Gardens and Borgo Santo Spirito, the city’s most bohemian neighbourhood. For decades the Florentine naming system has had a peculiarity that is gradually disappearing, but some traces of it can still be found: the civic numbers, in fact, were divided between “black”, which denoted the residences, and “red”, for businesses. Some red numbers still remain, so bear that in mind. Finally, some suggestion for improving your visit. The Tuscan regional capital is one of the cities with the highest tourist density on the entire planet: wherever you wish to visit, book in advance (or have them book for you at your hotel). You should also bear in mind that the serious overcrowding takes place around mid-morning, so if you are an early bird then that could give you a significant advantage.
